Présentation

Radio Tray est un lecteur de radio en streaming s'exécutant dans la zone d'état système. Il est conçu avec une interface minimalistique, le rendant très simple d'emploi.

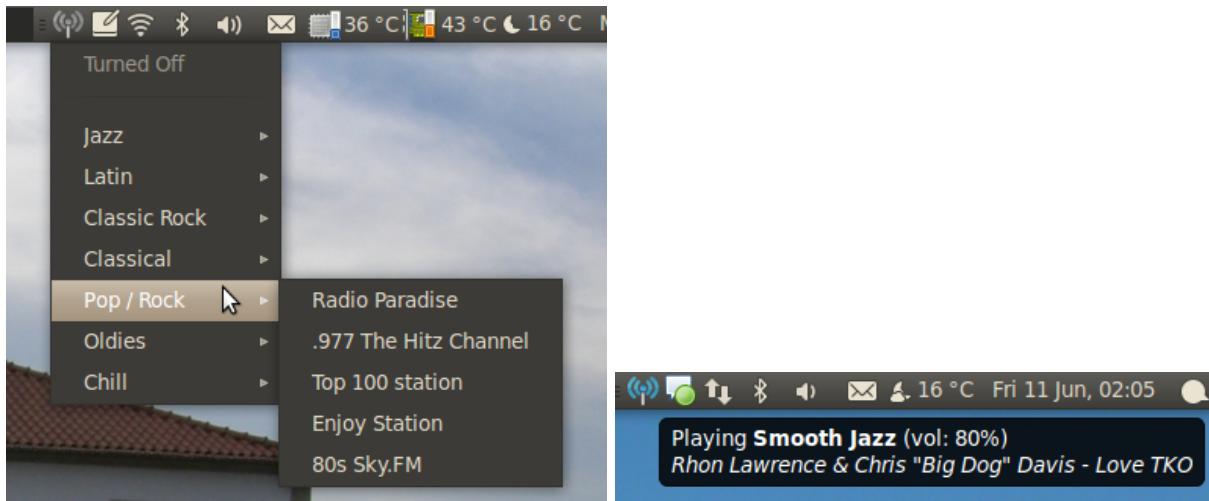

Radio Tray n'est pas un lecteur de musique complet, il en existe de nombreux. Cependant, il existait une demande pour une application simple avec une interface sobre, pour seulement écouter la radio en ligne. Et c'est là l'unique objectif de Radio Tray.

Radio Tray est distribuée sous licence GPLv2.

Fonctionnalités

- Prise en charge de la plupart des médias (basé sur la bibliothèque gstreamer)
- Glisser-déposer des marque-pages
- Facilité d'utilisation
- Prise en charge des listes de lecture au formats PLS (Shoutcast/Icecast), M3U, ASX, WAX et WVX
- Extensible par plugins

Menu principaux

Le clic gauche sur l'icône donne accès au choix des stations tandis que le clic droit permet de configurer radiotray.

Le réglage du volume s'effectue quant à lui en faisant tourner la molette au-dessus de l'icône.

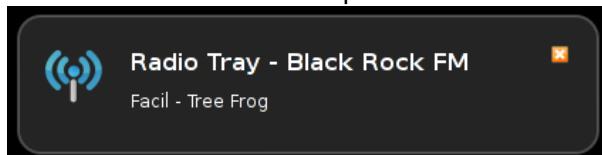

Le survol de l'icône affiche dans l'info-bulle le titre en cours de lecture :

Au moment où une station est effectivement activée, elle apparaît en notification :

De même est notifié chaque nouveau titre au début de sa réception :

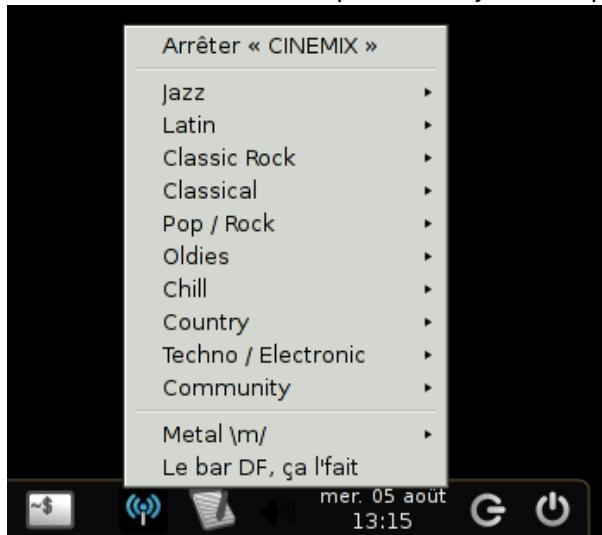

Configuration

Configurer les radios ...

L'ajout d'une nouvelle station ou d'un groupe de stations s'effectue très simplement :

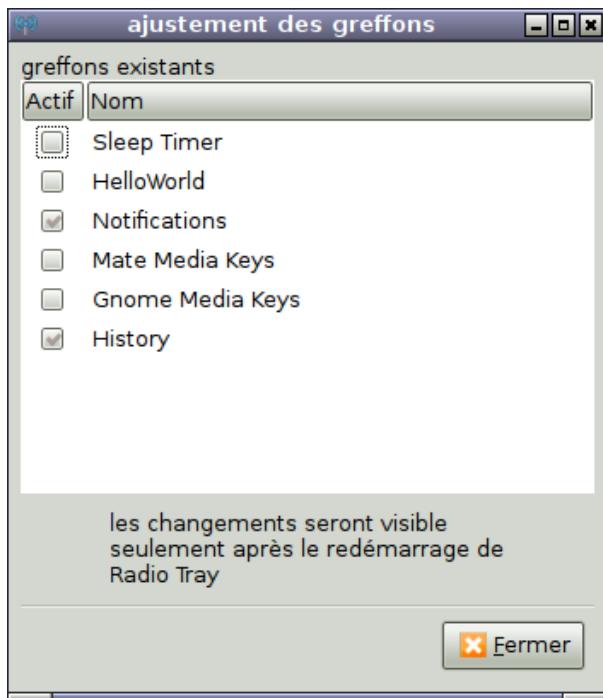

Cette méthode convient pour des ajouts en petit nombre :

Pour des modifications plus importantes, on éditera le fichier
`~/.local/share/radiotray/bookmarks.xml` ²⁾

Configurer les plugins

Quelques greffons peuvent être activés :

Le plus intéressant étant sans doute l'historique des titres joués :

Annexe - Configuration des stations

Vous pouvez éditer le fichier de configuration des stations quand Radio Tray est actif : utilisez l'entrée de menu "Recharger les signets"... afin que les modifications apportées au fichier ~/.local/share/radiotray/bookmarks.xml soient prises en compte à chaud.

Depuis Debian 9 Stretch, les stations dont le nom contient un caractère non ASCII (é, è, ç, etc.) ne sont plus chargées ; le fichier proposé ci-dessous est donc en partie obsolète et/ou invalide.

Configuration proposée

~/.local/share/radiotray/bookmarks.xml
